

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

Members:

Everytime I open my telephone bill, I find that I am paying more in taxes for having a telephone than I actually use or make calls.

It is a nickle and dime approach to taxation, with little explanation of where and how this tax is used for the benefit of citizens who pay their bills.

I subscribe to a cell phone service, that provides me with security and safety. I choose a low cost service which fits my need. I don't want additional taxes being added on to this service.

Please consider what your actions really do to the majority of tax paying citizens, seniors on fixed incomes and good companies that are providing services that fit their needs.

Sincerely, Nancy Wright 2317 Dorval Drive San Jose, CA 95130
